When Should I Quit My Job And... Become a Full-Time Network Marketer?

I love visiting different countries; I've actually been to over 70 countries so far! I meet many fellow network marketers on my travels. And just like in the United States, they always ask me when they should quit their J-O-B and go full-time in their business. Find out what I share with them on "When to Fire Your Boss" in this Special Report.

Network Marketing Best Practices

When Should I Quit My JOB?

Dear fellow Network Marketer,

"All progress is based upon the universal innate desire on the part of every organism to live beyond its income." -- Samuel Butler.

For Christmas one year I decided to take my family (along with a few close friends) on a 5-day shopping trip to London, England.

While there I met up with some fellow network marketers for some fun and training. And just like in the United States, they asked me when they should quit their J-O-B and go full-time in their business!

One of the biggest reasons people join network marketing is because they hate their jobs.

Their goal is to earn enough money so they can afford to leave their present employment. Will that give them financial security?

Probably not.

For example, let's say that John earns $2,500 a month at his job.

That $2,500 a month pays the expenses for John and his family.

While he is building his networking business, his part-time checks of $1,000 per month represent extra income that is not required to cover their personal overhead.

It's unencumbered money.

That extra $1,000 a month could buy trips, nice cars, fun times, pay off debts, or could be saved for retirement or invested for financial security. Life is good with extra cash to spend as you wish.

But what happens when John's network marketing check reaches $2,500 a month?

When Should I Quit My JOB?

He makes a devastating mistake to his network marketing career. He quits his job.

Now John's $2,500 a month network marketing check pays the expenses for John and his family. There is no extra cash or fun money. The budget is tight. John sweats his sales volume every month hoping his check won't drop to $2,300.

See the difference?

EXAMPLE 1: JOHN KEEPS HIS JOB.

Result: John Gets Ahead Financially Faster + Lower Pressure

EXAMPLE 2: JOHN QUILTS HIS JOB.

Result: No Lifestyle Change + Higher Pressure.

When Should I Quit My JOB?

When you keep your job, you can get ahead financially faster. This is huge. You now have the $2500 from your job plus the $2500 from your Network Marketing business. Now you can use the extra $2500 to:

- Pay off your credit cards. Once you've paid off your credit cards you can take the extra $500 a month in interest payments and use that to get ahead financially faster. You now have an extra $3000 a month.
- Pay off your car loan. Once you've paid off your car loan you can take that extra $500 a month and use it to get ahead financially faster. You now have an extra $3500 a month. Not to mention the interest you've saved long term on your car by paying it off sooner than later.
- Reinvest some back into your Network Marketing business. Now you can add an extra $500 a month to your existing $2500 Network Marketing check. Now you have an extra $4000 a month.

That's just a few ideas, there are many.

The cumulative effect can be massive in helping you and your family get ahead financially faster. A lot faster.

The successful network marketers I know keep their job and invest their network marketing check. After a few years they are totally financially independent because of their investments.

Then they quit their job. Their investments pay the monthly expenses while their networking checks are spent on more investments, vacations, and other fun activities.

The Magic of Part-Time

In Network Marketing, you can start this miracle of achieving financial independence by working your business part-time.

"Profits are better than wages. Wages make you a living; Profits make you a fortune." -- Jim Rohn

If you had asked Jim Rohn about his view on networking marketing, it would have gone something like this...

Let's say you devote 10-15 hours per week to your networking business and you start making a profit. Here's what you can say.

"I'm working full-time on my job and part time on my fortune. But it won't be long before I'm working full-time on my fortune. . . can you imagine what my life will look like?"

Your next goal could be to earn part-time from your networking business what you're earning full-time from your job.

It won't be long if you do it right and learn the skills. Some have done it in 6 months, some in 2 years, some a bit longer.

Here's what you can now say:

"I found a way to work part-time on my fortune, and I am making as much money at that as I am at my full-time job. Would you like to hear my story?"

Incredible!

Your next goal could be to make twice as much-money working part-time on your fortune as you do working full-time on your job. Now look at your story.

"I've found a way, through this unique opportunity, to work on my fortune and now I'm earning twice as much money part-time as I'm making full-time on my job. Would you like to hear my story?"

Most of your prospects work full-time on their jobs. Almost all will say:

"Yes! What are you doing!?"

When Should I Quit My JOB?

Jim Rohn was simply brilliant. It's an incredible invitation, an electrifying story you can build without quitting your job.

I'll leave you with this...

*"Since I quit my j-o-b, I sleep like a baby.
Every three hours I get up and cry."
-- Anonymous Distributor*

If you still insist on quitting your job, here is a good rule of thumb to follow:

When your part-time networking business income equals your full-time job income for six consecutive months, only then should you even begin to consider quitting your job and becoming a full-time network marketer.

I have a friend who has a good grasp on this concept. He has his employer deduct 100% of his full-time job paycheck towards his taxes! Why?

It helps cover the taxes he owes from his growing part-time network marketing business!

My friend now tells his prospects: "My part-time business is going so well, I use my entire check from my full-time job just to pay my taxes! Would you like to hear my story?"

Nice touch.

Here's to Your Success!
